

TB Vaccines
A Second Global Forum

C. Fordham von Reyn, MD
Dartmouth Medical School

Professor C. Fordham von Reyn MD is Director, DarDar Research Programs (Tanzania) for Dartmouth Medical School (DMS). He is a graduate of Harvard Medical School, an alumnus of the Centers for Disease Control Epidemic Intelligence Service, and the World Health Organization AIDS Program. He is the founding Chief of Infectious Disease and International Health at DMS. His research interests include HIV-associated tuberculosis, mycobacterial skin tests, infections due to non-tuberculous mycobacteria and new TB vaccines for persons with HIV infection. He is Principal Investigator for the NIH-sponsored DarDar Phase III TB vaccine trial.